The port Jefferson Free Library today announced that it would not be holding its budget vote scheduled for April 7 due to the coronavirus.

The library board voted unanimously at a special meeting held March 23rd to cancel its budget vote and investigate a possible reschedule in June.

Director Donlon commented “library staff is working tirelessly to develop and implement new library services while our library doors must remain closed to help protect our community from the coronavirus. We look forward to reopening our doors just as soon as it is safe to do so but in the meantime we are here for local residents in need of the kinds of information and support that they have always turned to the library for.”

The library urges all local residents to visit the library's website at www.portjefflibrary.org to keep up with all of the latest news about the coronavirus and to find out about the wide and fast growing array of online services available to local residents through our library.
